

Mascot Books Publishes Passing the Bone: America's Next POTUS By Heather Patterson

Herndon, VA; January 8th 2016: Mascot Books announces the release of Passing the Bone: America's Next POTUS, written by Heather Patterson.

Bo Obama, Pup Of The United States, shares the dos and don'ts of being the nation's First Dog as he prepares to pass the bone to his successor. The entire nation is wondering, Who will be the next POTUS?

With the 2016 presidential election well under way, parents are looking for a fun way to introduce their children to politics. Look no further than this charming new children's picture book! This nonpartisan book teaches kids all about the white house and presidency in an engaging and delightful story!

Heather Patterson lives in Dallas, Texas and is a debut children's author. She is an elementary school teacher and was inspired by her twin sister's dog, Beau, to write this story. Passionate about children, education, and politics, she wrote this book for young readers to relate to current events.

As the 2016 election race heats up, Heather is preparing for an extensive book tour across Texas and Washington D.C. Every presidential election is exciting, historic, and an educational opportunity. Heather wants to draw children in and include them in the election process, by engaging them at their level and appealing to their interests. Heather is available for interviews, appearances, and book signings. Stay tuned for upcoming book tour dates!
